Good morning. I hope this newsletter finds you well and in good spirits.

There are as many reasons to live in Nashua as there are people who live here.

According to niche.com, Nashua is one of the best places to live in New Hampshire. It "offers residents an urban-suburban-mix feel" and has "lots of restaurants, coffee shops, and parks." They also say Nashua's public schools are above average.

Money.com rates us as one of the "50 Best Places to Live."

Realtor.com says, "In September 2023, the median listing home price in Nashua, NH was $469.9K, trending up 10.6% year-over-year. The median listing home price per square foot was $270. The median home sold price was $495K."

As of this writing we have 99 homes for sale, and 62 for rent.

In September 2023 we were in a buyer's market, meaning the supply of homes is greater than the demand, and on average, it takes just over a couple of weeks for a home to sell once it's on the market.

We have 25 public schools rated good and higher by GreatSchools.org. If you're looking for a private or charter school, you'll find 14 to choose from.
